Dear Ms. DaSilva,
We appreciate your author reuse query.

As author, you retain the right to reuse your original work, in whole or in part, in a new publication that you are primary author or editor of.

For entire articles, you may use your Accepted Author Manuscript, or a link to your Version of Record (published version) as stated in the Taylor & Francis Author Reuse Guide:

<https://authorservices.taylorandfrancis.com/sharing-your-work/>

Please provide the full acknowledgment of your original work in your new publication.

This retained right is for non-commercial use only, that is, you are not to receive a large remuneration other than a small royalty payment for the work.

Thank you for contacting us.

Mary Ann Muller – Permissions Coordinator, US Journals Division

My Work Schedule is Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday.

Find digital versions of our articles on: www.tandfonline.com to use RightsLink, our online permissions web page, for immediate processing of your permission request.

Please Note: Permissions requests for US journals may take up to three weeks for processing due to demand.

Subject: permission request for table in article

I went through the Right Link website, but I did not see how to make the type of request I am desiring. I am the primary author of "Whole body vibration on people with sequelae of polio" published in Physiotherapy Theory and Practice, on line March 29, 2018. I am wishing to re-use ~ 1/3 of Table 2 from this article for a new work on methods with whole body vibration to display "representative results" in a new open access journal. I am hoping that me using only part of 1 table from my article in a new article by me will qualify for the $0 license, of course crediting the original source of the table and stating that it was modified from the original.

When I went through the on-line site, $472 came up as the quick price. Please advise. Thank you,
