Dear Dr. Sturma,

Many thanks for your email. Authors who publish with Frontiers retain copyright to their work - all Frontiers articles published since August 2013 are Open Access and distributed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution License. This permits the use, distribution and reproduction of material from published articles, provided the original authors and source are credited, and subject to any copyright notices concerning any third-party content. Therefore, it will be no problem for you to cite results from your previous publication.

I hope this information is useful, if you have any questions about this please do let me know, I would be happy to help.

Best wishes,

Dear Sir or Madame,

I am currently preparing a manuscript for submission at the Journal of Visualized Experiments. Parts of this manuscript will refer to my previous Frontiers publication "Rehabilitation of Upper Extremity Nerve Injuries Using Surface EMG Biofeedback: Protocols for Clinical Application". Therefore, I would like to show and cite results from this publication (Table 3 and 4) within the JoVE manuscript.

May I ask you to grant me permission for including these results in the new manuscript with proper citation?

Yours sincerely,
Agnes Sturma
