

A photograph of a laboratory workstation. In the center is a Leica microscope. To its left are four multi-well plates. To its right is a blue mold containing three black circular objects, a stack of blue cylindrical containers, and a green-lidded blue container. A power supply unit is visible in the background.

